Limited liability partnerships (LLP) were introduced in 2001 and offer a cross between a partnership and company structure. An LLP is simply a partnership, which provides the partners with the benefits of limited liability - thus ring-fencing their personal assets from any potential business creditors. Although in general law a LLP is regarded as a body corporate and is like a company, for tax purposes a LLP is normally treated as a partnership. Therefore an LLP will normally be regarded as transparent for tax purposes and each member partner will be assessed to tax on their share of the LLPs income or gains as if they were members of a normal partnership. If a LLP carries on a trade each registered partner is taxable on the income they derive from the LLP as trading income. This is a crucial difference from being a shareholder in a company. A company shareholder is regarded as a separate entity for both legal and tax purposes. An LLP however is a separate legal entity purely in legal terms.
