One could talk from one side to the other without raising one's voice, and the birds could fly over it with one sweep of their wings. And on the two banks there were millions of men, the one turned toward the other, eye to eye. But the distance which separated them was greater than that of the stars in the sky; it was the distance which separates right from injustice. The ocean is so vast that the sea gulls do not dare to cross it. During seven days and seven nights the great steamships of America, going at full speed, drive through the deep waters, before the lighthouses of France come into view; but from one side to the other hearts are touching. Dr. Finley reported in his French Schools in War Time many instances of the magnificent courage and determination of the entire teaching body in France to keep alive the spirit of education in which alone is the prophecy of an enduring nation. Belgium, in spite of her losses, has resolved to do no less. We learn from the Revue Pédagogique of June 1917 in an article by L. de Paeuw that early in the war, when it was found necessary to...
