Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Duties of Masters and Slaves Respectively; Or Domestic Servitude as Sanctioned by the Bible: A Discourse, Delivered in the Government-Street Church, Mobile, Ala The existence of slavery in society under certain circumstances, like that of poverty and pain and all the diversities of condition now found among men, may, in the view of Infinite Wisdom, be indispensable to the attainment of the greatest possible good. It may furnish an invaluable trial of character. Forbearance, self-control, justice and-benevolence in owners; and patience, humility, fidelity, and deference to God s will, in servants, may be the fruits of this institution, where its appropriate duties are rightly discharged, which in their effects on the character and the destiny of both masters and slaves hereafter, shall infinitely out weigh all the numerous evils now springing from its existence. Thou sands, both of masters and servants, may be constantly growing in excellence of character that shall fit them for higher seats and brighter glories in heaven, than were possible without this institution; so that, many though its incident evils are, all shall hereafter see it was the highest benevolence in God to suffer it to exist: for the wrath of man shall praise Him 2.
