The Bishop s argument, when reduced to its elements, is simply that because Marconi has devised an instrument for producing electric waves (which are not dissimilar to those of light), and another instrument for detecting these waves as the eye does those of light, therefore all things are possible to God. The inference is absurd, even apart from the consideration that the existence of God is at least an open question. The miracles of science are, in short, not miracles at all, but merely newly-discovered manifestations of...
