Sarabande Books, 2005. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. [A] haunting novel. . . . This book brims with the poetry of the working class, seldom sung lyrics of working men and women.--from the introduction by Larry Woiwode Shepherd is a master craftsman, and the subtlety of his art, the unassuming elegance of its architecture, rendered me spellbound and finally grateful. I don t think I shall ever forget this fine book, its honest, guileless voice leading me along into the fire. --Bob Shacochis A riveting exploration of what it is to be an outsider even in your own head. Shepherd has written a gripping story of childhood angst--psychologically thrilling, lyrically exact. --Janet Burroway Levi Revel is a boy in danger of losing his family and maybe his mind. He s in awe of his father, Everest, a majestic dreamer, a master builder, a man with a violent, secret past. As the family moves from state to state, Levi hears solace in the voice of God, a voice that sends him preaching from treetops and roofs. But the family begins to fall apart, and as Levi enters adolescence, he hears more troubling things: other voices, terrifying sounds, warnings. When Everest takes him on a high-speed, cross-country chase to win back Levi s mother--by force if necessary--Levi realizes how much danger they all are in. Tender and frightening, this debut novel takes readers across America, through the eyes and ears of a child whose family is haunted by a past they can t outrun. From a boy lost in a world of imaginary voices and chilling destruction to a young man who can rebuild steeples, the story Levi tells is the triumph of persistence over moments of isolation and despair. Paul Shepherd lives in Tallahassee, Florida.
