Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Symphony Stories Young peter was very bright and could speak both French and German. When he began to show an interest in music by thrum ming on the window pane and making up his own tunes it was decided to let him take piano lessons. Although he started at the age of four and learned rapidly, it never occurred to anyone that he would one day become a great composer. So when Peter was ten years old he was sent to a law school in St. Petersburg. It was not until he was twenty three that he made up his mind to devote his life to music. His success did not come without many disappointments, and he was often very sad. For years he struggled along, trying to teach at the Moscow Conservatory and compose at the same time. He never seemed to be able to keep the money he made from giving lessons, and often he tossed coins carelessly to the small boys in the street. Once he spent every cent he had in sending a cablegram to America to thank an orchestra conductor for playing his piano concerto. His friends urged him to be more thrifty, but Tchaikovsky paid no attention. What he really needed was a kind fairy to give him enough money so that he could spend all his time composing. And this is exactly what happened! One day a rich lady heard about his troubles, and decided she would be the kind fairy. All the rest of his life she took care of him and made it possible for him to become a great composer. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare...
